Dispute Over Saar Threatens Parley

Work On W. German Sovereignty Progresses

PARIS (AP)—The Big Three Western powers made progress Wednesday night toward giving sovereignty back to West Germany, but faced a menacing deadlock between Germany and France over the Saar. Optimism expressed Tuesday was tempered sharply.

The old French-German dispute over the future of the Saar was only one of two major problems facing the Western nations gathering here in increasing numbers to work out progressively the accords which they hope will make the West a solid bloc against Communist aggression.

Besides the Saar, there arose again the problem of how to control the amount of arms which West Germany will have, or will be able to make, once she becomes a nation allied in friendship with her former enemies of the West and free in almost every sense of the word.

Ministers of the four powers met for two hours in the late afternoon to act on more than 100 pages of intricate text designed to make West Germany free, only not quite. The meeting was held at the Paris headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"Solutions were proposed for the few remaining issues," said a brief communiqué. "The experts were asked to modify the texts accordingly for resubmission to the four ministers Oct. 21." That's Thursday.

The sight of four Western powers—West Germany, France, Britain and the United States—sitting together was something new in the NATO conference halls.

Even before the conference began, two of the principal figures, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and French Premier Pierre Mendes-France, had an eight-hour session on the coal-bearing Saar, now linked economically to France. That was Tuesday. Wednesday U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Sir Anthony Eden, who was newly knighted by Queen Elizabeth II, flew into Paris to enlarge the talks.

Thursday the four become nine, to discuss conversion of the five-nation Brussels Alliance into a seven-nation treaty including—and slightly harnessing—West Germany.

Friday the 14 nations of NATO—which includes all the nine except West Germany—meet to vote West Germany membership in NATO.

Marilyn Monroe's Trial Date Set

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Because Marilyn Monroe is undergoing "great strain" while awaiting trial for her divorce suit, a judge Wednesday sped up the legal processes and set the trial for next Wednesday.

Her suit against baseball hero Joe DiMaggio was filed in Superior Court only last Oct. 5, asking that their marriage be ended because he had caused her "grievous mental suffering and anguish." Normally it takes six weeks or more after a divorce is filed before it comes to trial. But Wednesday her attorney, Jerry Giesler, asked for an early trial date and it was granted by Judge Orlando H. Rhodes. Giesler said that as DiMaggio has elected not to contest the divorce it should take only about 15 minutes for the trial.

61 YEAR VOTING RECORD INTACT

CHICAGO (AP)—William C. Krueger, 82, spent several hours Wednesday making sure his 61-year record for voting would not be broken.

Krueger lives in Dolton, a suburb 20 miles south of Chicago. He came downtown to the office of the Cook County clerk to cast an absentee ballot for the Nov. 2 election.

He has cast a vote in every election since becoming of age. He will be away on a vacation in November.

Reds Hold Four Of Sen. Smith's Party For An Hour

BERLIN (AP)—A tour of Soviet-run East Berlin by Sen. Margaret Chase Smith ran afoul of Communist police Wednesday and four members of her party were held for an hour.

The Maine Republican senator was not detained. She was hurried away from the scene as soon as East German police approached and stopped television cameramen with her from filming her visit.

In an ensuing argument, four members of her group were taken to East Berlin police headquarters and released after identifying themselves.

Mrs. Smith said she was unaware of the fuss until she returned to allied West Berlin to catch a plane for Zurich, Switzerland, and Prague, Czechoslovakia, on her way to Moscow.

The four taken into custody were William C. Lewis, Sen. Smith's administrative assistant; Elmer Cox, State Department information officer escorting the party; Robert M. Huttenloch, a Columbia Broadcasting System sound engineer, and the German chauffeur of a State Department automobile.

Mrs. Smith's tour was being filmed for the CBS television show "See It Now." Police did not confiscate the film.

Mrs. Smith told newsmen she hoped to see Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov and that she had several "specific questions" to ask him. She declined to say what they are.

Security Report Not Available Until After Nov. 2

WASHINGTON (AP)—An inside story of how the government's security program has been handled probably will not become available to the public until after the elections.

The report from the Civil Service Commission is to tell in considerable detail how various phases of the program have applied to individuals. It was asked by the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee as a basis for hearings that could lead to a new law.

However, Chairman Rees (R-Kans.) of the committee said Wednesday at Emporia, Kans., that he did not plan to make the report immediately upon its receipt. He said: "Not knowing the exact contents of the report, I do not propose to release it until I have had an opportunity to review it. Also, before it can be released it must be printed and in the hands of members of our committee."

"Just the mechanics of getting these things done will mean that it will be some time after the report is received before it could be released."

For one thing, he would have the law clearly define differences between subversives and other types of security risks, such as employees who drink too much. Rees also would have the law require that borderline cases be resolved in favor of the government rather than the employee.

The security program has been argued vigorously during the congressional campaigns, with Republican claims of success in ridding the government of risks being challenged as phony by the Democrats.

On Oct. 11 the Civil Service Commission reported, giving no names, that there had been 6,936 separations from the government payroll in the last nine months under the security program. It said that the total of firings and resignations under it included 1,743 persons with subversive information in their files.

Walter Finds Host Of Friends As Search For 'Punky' Begins

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP)—About everyone in this town of 24,000 people is looking today for a mongrel dog named Punky.

Punky, a rust and white colored mixture of collie and chow, is a mighty important thing right now in the life of 14-year-old Walter Smith Jr.

"The only friend I've got," he says.

The boy is the central figure in a domestic tragedy that took place in Mansfield, Ohio Oct. 12. His mother, Mrs. Dolores Cathworth 37, was shot to death by Joseph Henry Schwartz, 44, who then killed himself.

Walter found the bodies.

The unhappy boy, hearing he was to be sent to his father, Walter Merrill Smith, a Galesburg, Ill., mechanic, ran away with his dog. A few days later he fell into friendly custody in Findlay of Sheriff Carson C. Davis. But the dog had disappeared.

Since then scores of persons have belied the boy's statement that Punky was his only friend. They have flocked to the sheriff's residence offering him help. They've given him money and offered him dogs. But it's Punky he

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Nixon said Wednesday night when the Eisenhower administration took office in January, 1953, it found the Democrats had left "a virtual blueprint for socializing America."

The blueprint, he said, included "spending plans for adding 40 billion dollars to the national debt between 1952 and 1956."

It called for "socialized medicine, socialized housing, socialized agriculture, socialized water and power and, perhaps the most disturbing of all, socializing of America's greatest source of power—atomic energy," Nixon said.

The vice president said the blueprint "was found in the files when we came to Washington on Jan. 20, 1953." He did not elaborate.

Nixon, in an address at a dinner of the Audit Bureau of Circulation, added:

"With the execution of this blueprint, thousands of new bureaucrats would have been added to the federal payroll. The resultant miles of red tape and controls would have tied the American consumer, worker and businessman into knots, thereby hampering their incentive, initiative, efficiency and productivity."

In contrast, he said, the Eisenhower administration believes that "government activity should not be one of the leaf-raking boondoggling, make-work type of the 30s."

Under Eisenhower, he said, government activity is channeled toward "solid wealth-creating activities" which "not only stimulate greater production but avoid recession."

Nixon, whose speech was billed as non-political, said that as the political campaign enters its final states, it is clear the major issue is whether there will be a GOP Congress to "support Eisenhower" or a Democratic one "committed to Truman policies."

Upon his arrival in Chicago earlier, Nixon told newsmen the Nov. 2 election can be won or lost by either party in the next two weeks.

He added, however, that the Republicans have been gaining ground in the last week or 10 days.

"From what I have heard, I sincerely believe we are going to pick up a Senate seat in Illinois," he said, referring to the race between Sen. Douglas, the Democratic incumbent, and Joseph T. Meek, the GOP nominee.

The vice president held an airport news conference on his arrival from Philadelphia in Chicago to address a 40th anniversary dinner of the Audit Bureau of Circulation.

Queen Elizabeth Knights Eden

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II knighted Anthony Eden Wednesday, the 57-year-old foreign secretary, kneeling before his young sovereign, became a Knight of the Garter—the highest order of British chivalry—at the touch of a golden sword.

"Arise, Sir Anthony," Elizabeth said.

The 15-minute surprise ceremony at Buckingham Palace delighted both Eden's colleagues in Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative government and the opposition Laborites.

A short time later Eden flew in a Royal Air Force transport plane to Paris for talks aimed to restore West Germany's sovereignty and add German units to the West's defenses.

Eden is only the seventh commoner to be made a Knight of the Garter since 1700. He and Churchill, knighted April 24, 1953, are the only living commoners members of the order.

Southampton Hit By Dock Strike

LONDON (AP)—Britain's creeping paralysis of waterfront strikes spread Wednesday to the great Atlantic terminus of Southampton, where the liners Queen Elizabeth and America prepared to sail on the tide for New York.

Some 2,000 dockers at Southampton pulled a snap walkout Wednesday even though they had voted at a mass meeting Tuesday night against joining in sympathy with the strikes which have crippled other major British ports.

Even as workers loading cargo and stores aboard the $3,000,000 Cunard liner dropped their tools, Queen Mother Elizabeth boarded the world's biggest ship for her visit to America.

Non-striking stevedores carried the Queen's luggage aboard.

Russia, Red China Show No Evidence Of Genuine Change

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower—in the face of Democratic criticism of the Republican regime's foreign policy—declared Wednesday night his administration has "come far" in thwarting communist aggression and toward winning lasting world peace.

The chief executive told a nationwide television and radio audience "the persistently aggressive design" of Russia and Red China "shows no evidence of genuine change."

But the "awesome" military might of America and the other free nations is "a deterrent to war," Eisenhower said at a dinner marking the 300th anniversary of Jewish life in America.

That might, the president told an applauding 1,800 diners at the Sheraton-Astor Hotel, will be kept ready "at all times, in today's uncertain world... to deal effectively and flexibly" with any new communist threat to the free world.

Eisenhower pledged, however, that "our forces will never be used to initiate war against any nation; they will be used only for the defense of the free world." He said:

"The pursuit of peace is at once our religious obligation and our national policy. Peace in freedom—where all men dwell in security—is the ideal toward which our foreign policy is directed."

The President told his audience that standing in the way of enduring peace, "the principle and continuing factor is the persistently aggressive design of Moscow and Peking which shows no evidence of genuine change despite their professed desire to relax tensions and to preserve peace."

He added:

"Continuing, also, is the breadth and scope of the Communist attack; no weapon is absent from their arsenal, whether intended for the destruction of cities and people or for the destruction of truth, integrity, loyalty."

The President said that in the effort to achieve a durable peace, "we must help to harmonize the divergent views of the many free, self-governing nations, and without encroaching upon rights which all people cherish."

Earlier in Hartford, Conn., the President, asserting that war no longer is a question of "victory or defeat," said that the hope of abolishing "this terrible scourge" lies in world understanding.

What is needed, above all, he said in a brief informal speech, is to understand why nations "read to certain actions, certain considerations and circumstances in this world in a different way from which we do."

Knowing that, he said, it will be possible then to go ahead "in devising and composing those arrangements in the world that will gradually abolish this terrible scourge."

Eisenhower spoke to a police-estimated crowd of 7,500 on the campus of Trinity College after receiving an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Although he came to Connecticut less than two weeks before the state elects a governor and six representatives to Congress, his appearance here en route to New York was billed as non-political by the White House.

WASHINGTON (AP)—William V. society set up its first settlement. A year later Jehudi Ashmun was sent across to aid the infant colony. In 1824 he was joined by another white American, the Rev. Robert Gurley, who invented the word "Liberia."

The country now has around 2,500,000 people in an area roughly the size of Ohio. It produces rubber, iron ore, timber, piassava (a coarse brown fiber used in making mats and brushes), cocoa, palm kernels and seven varieties of poisonous snakes.

Oddly, it has a race problem of its own. The descendants of American slaves have become known as the "civilized" group; the tribesmen "uncivilized."

Tubman has tried to break down the barrier by traveling extensively in the back country and by taking the "uncivilized" leaders into his government.

As a politician, Tubman must be the envy of all office seekers. He has been President since 1943, and although his present term has two years to run, he already has been offered, and has accepted, the candidacy for a third term.

Relatively few went, but if Tubman is a fair sample of what happened, those who did made out all right.

Liberia's history is particularly interesting since Americans, both white and black, have played such a part in its past.

U.S. Deficit Growing, Budget Director Reports

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Federal Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes reported Wednesday the Eisenhower administration's fight to balance the budget faces a new setback—the government deficit is growing again.

Hughes said present estimates for the 1954-55 fiscal year indicate the government will spend 4.7 billion dollars more than it takes in. A deficit of 4.7 billion would be 1.7 billion greater than the deficit for 1953-54.

In a speech at the closing session of the annual American Bankers Assn. convention Hughes said the increase is expected for two reasons:

1. Congress "reduced excise taxes by a greater amount than the administration had originally recommended."
2. Government expenses, "principally for agricultural price supports," will take 773 million dollars more than was looked for earlier.

In the final action of the convention, the bankers elected Honorable J. Livingston of Chicago as the association's new president.

Livingston, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, succeeds Everett D. Reese of Newark, Ohio.

Two other homes standing near the water-logged stage of the bluff were faced with a similar threat. Authorities said the slides were caused by a combination of eight inches of rain in the last 10 days and a gradual rising of the water level in Lake Michigan during recent years.

Erosion eating away at Lake Michigan bluffs for about 40 miles north from the Indiana border has caused heavy damage. Nearly 50 lake-side homes in the area have been destroyed or damaged.

Editorial Comment

JACKSON'S SUCCESSOR

The considerations that led to the selection of Earl Warren as Chief Justice of the United States overrode the fact that he lacked experience as a practicing judge.

His balanced temperament, his breadth of vision, his vast general experience with the sort of problems the high court deals with, all recommended him particularly for Chief Justice.

But the untimely death of Justice Robert H. Jackson creates a totally different puzzle for President Eisenhower.

Special considerations may rightfully apply in choosing a chief justice. But in the rest of the court, judicial experience has been too long ignored. The President would do well to restore that factor to its proper place in the selection process.

There is no rule which requires that the Supreme Court be populated almost wholly with men of long practice on the bench. But it does seem reasonable to suggest that at least a few of the justices should be veteran jurists. One can hardly quarrel with the idea that a body of judges should contain some judges.

In the past 20 or more years, the presidential habit has developed of employing the court as a kind of happy hunting ground for deserving politicians and appointive officers eager for the permanence of tenure that goes with the job.

That the U. S. attorney generalship should come to be regarded in many eyes as a kind of automatic stepping-stone to the Supreme Court indicates how far this trend has gone.

Clearly we should have no automatic steppingstones, nor should the court be treated as an election-proof paradise for party faithful. This doesn't mean no attorney general should ever again get the job, and it doesn't mean political and administrative ranks should be bypassed.

But it does mean that real judicial training is long overdue for recognition.

Mr. Eisenhower is said to be considering four eminent jurists among half a dozen prospects for the Jackson vacancy. He can do no better for the court and the nation at this time than to name one of those four—or a man of equal qualification.

A PRETTY DREAM

Prime Minister Nehru of India and Prime Minister Sastrosamidjojo of Indonesia have proposed an Asian-African peace parley aimed at extending the "peace area" from the Philippines westward to Egypt.

In attendance, besides India and Indonesia, would be Ceylon, Burma and Pakistan, the whole comprising the so-called "Colombo powers." Of this group, only Pakistan is a signatory of the new Southeast Asia defense pact. The others are properly described as Asian "neutralists."

The two promoters of this parley propose to exclude Red China, on the theory that the conference thus would be free of any entanglements with either the Communist or the Western worlds.

This is a pretty dream, no doubt, and it may result in some pretty words if the conference should be held.

But a great force bent on world conquest is at work in Asia, as elsewhere. Its power cannot be blunted by professions of peaceful intent from among the intended victims. It can only be met by countering force.

That is harsh doctrine, grating on Nehru's tender ears, but it is the only policy that makes sense in the harsh world that contains a marauding communism.

What Teen-Agers Can Do About Quarreling Parents

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Lou belongs to a club of teen-age girls. At their last get-together they suddenly realized they held meetings only in the homes of two members. And asked themselves "Why?"

They passed their answer along to me. They say the homes of most club members have been shattered by the quarrels in them or either fighting, about to fight or have just finished fighting.

Lou writes: "We're sick of it. Parents are always complaining that teenagers won't stay home. If they do stay quarreling with each other, maybe we would. Who wants friends in her house if she never knows what her parents may say to each other in front of them?"

Nobody would. But why have these youngsters lost all about their feelings? Why don't they express them to their parents?

Let me suggest this. Club members, if we live with quarreling people, we have to learn to express our feelings.

For such people, no matter what their age are uncertain about their own feelings. What affection they have for the other person is all mixed up with resentment that he's not somebody else.

This uncertainty is so absorbing that they can give none of their attention to the feelings of anyone else. So if we live with them, we have to break through to them with the news that we have a feeling of two ourselves.

If we are kind and firm, we may get results. But if we angrily interrupt their quarreling, we won't. The quarrelers will strike out at us blindly as ungentle awakeners.

So you see the problem. Club members. Can you find enough kindness and firmness to distract your parents' attention from themselves without getting hurt?

If you haven't enough, let me urge each of you to do this. Think through this desire for a home you can respect. Is it a good one? Is it loving or cruel to say to two people who don't know how to protect themselves against criticism:

"Look, I know you and love you both. But my friends don't know you. They got a bad impression of you when you fight in front of them. This hurts me. It embarrasses me. I don't want them to think of you as just fighting people. So when they come here, please remember how I feel."

If you want your parents to respect your desire, you'll have to develop better respect for it yourselves. Right now you haven't enough of it, you wouldn't be complaining about them to others, as though your wish to respect them were something to be ashamed of.

The World Today

By ED CREAUGH

WASHINGTON — Suppose you were offered a free trip to Europe—to any place this side of the Iron Curtain you wanted to go. Which country or countries would you pick?

Nine out of 10 people will give you an answer to that question as quick as a wink. I know because I've already asked nine. You're the 10th.

It's fun to dream about foreign travel, and everybody has a favorite dream.

But let that dream become reality and you've got a problem on your hands.

I know because I've just been offered a free trip to Europe, and I can't for the life of me decide where in Europe to go.

How come I get a free trip? Well, I took some pictures of my little boy dropped the rail at the corner drugstore and then, out of a clear sky, a man called up and said:

"Congratulations. You have won the grand prize in our contest. When do you want to leave for Europe?"

(Tip to other amateur photographers: to win a prize you must have three things: a camera, a little boy who will make faces in front of it, and a lot of luck.)

Anyhow, as soon as the numbers were off, I started planning the trip I would take. And while I won't pretend I'm not enjoying myself, the problem of where to go is driving me nuts.

The trouble is, of course, you can't go everywhere on a 15-day trip. And every time you scratch out a name on your list of happy possibilities, it hurts.

England, for instance. Haven't been there since 1947, and it would be fine to go back. Same with France. But wouldn't it be better to strike out for some new place? Or would it?

There are all sorts of places. A Washington reporter, who often has to write about foreign affairs, could visit with profit. I once learned more about French communism by arguing for half an hour—pocket dictionary in hand—with a rag-picker in Paris than in months of reading about it in the papers.

So Berlin might be a good place to go. Or Austria. The problems of that neck of the woods are going to be with us a long time.

But golly, a man doesn't want to work all the time. He wants to do some sightseeing. So how could you leave out Rome? Or Venice? Or Athens?

Of course the sun would be glorious in Seville. Or in Sicily. And from Sicily maybe you could manage a quick trip to North Africa. But if you go that far, you'd have to miss Egypt and then you're only a stone's throw from Jerusalem, and Istanbul.

You see the problem? It's enough to give a man an anxiety neurosis.

My friends are not sympathetic. They tell me I am looking a gift horse in the mouth and complaining because it isn't an elephant. Maybe they're right.

All I know is that I wish I could make up my mind. My wife does, too. She's tired of having the living room cluttered up with travel folders.

This Mexican Macaroni Casserole Is Texas Favorite

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

Our advertising friend Duke Burgess of Dallas, Texas, is one of the best men cooks we know. His Mexican macaroni dish is just one that he cooked for us in his Dallas home, surrounded by his four children and lovely wife.

It's a lively dish, inexpensive, and has eye appeal and uses lean beef, now in superabundance. Incidentally, we served it successfully to some of our friends who attended the Newspaper Food Editors Conference in New York.

Mexican Macaroni Casserole

(Makes 4-6 servings)

One tablespoon salt 3 quarts boiling water 3 ounces elbow macaroni (2 cups), 2 tablespoons butter or margarine 1 pound ground round steak, 2 canned pineapples, chopped 1 1/3 cup chopped onion, 1 medium sized green pepper, sliced 1/2 cup tomato juice, 1/2 tablespoon chili powder, salt to taste 1 cup grated processed American cheese.

Add 1/2 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Melt butter or margarine over low heat; add meat and brown well. Add pineapples, onions and green pepper and cook over low heat until tender. Add tomato juice and chili powder, cover and cook over low heat 20 minutes. Combine meat mixture and cooked macaroni, season to taste with salt.

Latin-American cooking appeared also at the International Dinner given for the editors at the Ambassador Hotel in New York.

The elaborate party began with American appetizers such as turkey or lamb, broiled, little hamburgers and Welsh rabbit on toast points. There were five different menus—Latin-American, Oriental, Eastern, Middle Eastern and Scandinavian. Beer, which goes well with these foods, was served to those who enjoy it.

For each different international menu the tables were brilliantly decorated in national colors and china and linens and utensils were all authentic. This was a brilliant party.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Mexican macaroni casserole, canned peas, heated French or Italian bread, butter or margarine, avocado tomato and lettuce salad, chocolate chiffon pie, coffee, tea, milk.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — If all goes well, Claire Mann will reduce the supply of American womanhood by 125 tons by the end of this year.

"It isn't very much, is it?" signed Miss Mann, founder of "Overweights Anonymous," and pointed out there are some 18 million women in this country who have eaten themselves out of shape.

Her goal is to get all these plump ladies to lose an average of six pounds each, or a total of 54,000 tons of feminine fat. If loaded on the battleship Missouri, this weight would probably sink her. Converted into tallo, it could be made into a candle big enough to light a city. Might be a good idea, too. Make a splendid monument to the sex.

Claire, who has a daily women's show on station WABD-TV, started "Overweights Anonymous" three years ago, frankly patterned after "Alcoholics Anonymous" in many ways.

"Overweight and alcoholism, after all, spring from the same emotional causes," she said. "The problem is psychological, not physiological."

The main theory behind O.A. is that obese people who are unable to solve their problem on an individual basis often are able to do so when they attack it by group therapy.

The motto of O.A. is "Don't put off for tomorrow what you can take off today."

In three years the organization has grown to 100,000 members. There are no dues. The members meet at each other's homes in groups of 5 to 10 twice a month, and Miss Mann distributes free diets and exercises at her own expense.

But O.A. differs from A.A. in one important respect. If a member feels an overwhelming urge to indulge in a chocolate éclair, she can't telephone a fellow member to come racing through the night to save her from temptation.

"As a matter of fact, if a member scales down her poundage, she must maintain the weight loss for at least six months or be dropped from the rolls," said Claire firmly.

Ninety-nine per cent of O.A. members are women, but a male member holds the weight loss championship. He is an engineer who in three years dropped from 285 pounds to 173—a loss of 122 pounds. Just one more proof of the old truth that a good man can beat a woman at anything.

Miss Mann, a former ballet dancer and pianist, became interested in therapy as the result of an accident. The accident was a broken back. She was told she would never be able to dance again, might not be able to walk.

After six months in a hospital, she set out to rehabilitate herself. She went to Vienna and studied psychology and anatomy, worked out her own system of exercises to rebuild her wasted muscles.

Her stubborn will triumphed. She recovered completely, then opened a studio to help other people with physical and mental problems. She is married to a psychiatrist, has made a fresh career for herself in television.

"If it weren't for my accident, I'd have been only a second-rate dancer or pianist," she said. "It enabled me to do something new."

An attractive green-eyed blonde, Mann weighed 138 pounds as a dancer, now weighs 112.

"The diet in my case," she said wryly, "was pain."

Chairman Mitchell, Victory In Maine Help Dem Coeffers

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The Maine election has brightened the financial outlook of the Democratic National Committee.

As of the first of October, it had a deficit of $139,829.60. But since the voters of Maine elected a Democratic governor and indicated a Democratic trend generally, the committee has been rolling in much the same belief in the coming year that it could end up the year in the black, especially if they win one or both houses of Congress.

The inspiration of the Maine results brought total contributions from the first of the year to the first of October, up to $773,366.57. Much of that came in during the last few weeks, after Maine, with pledges of more money later.

It's close to the total of $800,833.35 taken in during all of 1953.

More Important Than The "Maine money" which the national committee is getting is the increase of funds going to Democratic candidates around the country generally, reported by the congressional campaign groups.

In spite of this improved financial outlook the Republican National Committee is still the wealthier outfit, as proved by its spending. Its biggest expenditure, compared to what the Democrats can afford, is for network TV and radio shows for President Eisenhower and other key officials.

The Democrats aren't spending anything nationally for network TV and radio.

In 1953 total contributions to the Republican National Committee were $1,339,538.15. Through Aug. 30 of this year the committee received $783,905.74. Spokesmen there are mum on what the Maine election has done to contributions.

Democratic Committee Spokesmen claim that Chairman Stephen Mitchell—in spite of reports that he is alienating some top Democrats and enjoying good morals.

including former President Harry Truman—has been an outstanding fund-getter and financial manager.

Ever since right after the 1952 defeat he has worked tirelessly among state groups on the party's financial problems. He has succeeded in selling them on accepting a quota which they must meet to fit the voters of Maine elected a Democratic governor and indicated a Democratic trend generally.

In this effort he succeeded in getting the states to accept the national committee as a service organization that it could end up the year in the black, especially if they win one or both houses of Congress.

This has been the traditional function of a national committee. But the staff has come up with a range of "do-it-yourself" ideas in the form of radio programs, advertising campaigns and research on national problems, which have proved exceptionally effective.

The Committee Staff has helped spark the party in spite of the defeat, which could be expected after the '52 defeat, and the lack of a positive national program around which to rally.

The Democratic Digest, a monthly magazine modeled after the Readers' Digest format, is just one of the good ideas which the committee has come up with. It's a sprightly roundup of Democratic news and ideas and sold by subscription.

The publication is not paying its own way yet. But it is serving as a good means for disseminating news and ideas among party workers, and to the press, radio and TV more effectively than a combination of other more expensive techniques formerly used.

There are many rumors that Mitchell will be supplanted by a new chairman soon, because of some of the things he has said in the current campaign and because he found his personality a little too abrasive. But if he goes he leaves his successor an organization in a surprisingly good financial shape.

★ DR. JORDAN SAYS ★

Surgery Is Most Effective Treatment for a Hernia

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Several questions regarding hernia have been brought up by a recent correspondent which I shall attempt to answer in this column.

He says that he is 60 and has had a hernia on his left side for several years. He has received literature from a hernia control service and wonders if this will bring permanent control, since he is not too keen on an operation.

One cannot give a specific reply to these questions without knowing more concerning the degree of the hernia, the physical condition of the patient and his occupation. The question of hernia or rupture, which is the same thing, can however be discussed in general and may throw some light on this correspondent's question.

A rupture is a weakening of the structures which are supposed to hold the organs in place, usually the abdominal organs. It is believed that this weakness is more or less inborn, though it may never show up unless some heavy strain has been put on the weakened tissue by lifting something too heavy or some similar injury.

But once a rupture has developed, it is likely to get gradually worse and may even get so bad that some of the organs lying in the ruptured sac can become strangulated and cause serious complications.

There are three possible lines of treatment for a hernia. The simplest is to wear a truss or support which may keep the sac and abdominal contents more or less in place. This can be reasonably satisfactory for a person who does not do heavy labor, though there is always some danger that a sudden strain will cause serious trouble. Also it is a nuisance. Nevertheless, there are many people who wear a truss for many years with fairly good success.

Some years ago the injection treatment was suggested for hernia. The purpose of injection is to irritate the inside of the hernia sac so that a firm scar will form at the point where the hernia is bulging and force back the contents of the sac where it belongs.

This method requires several treatments and carries some risk. Also the scar tissue formed is not always strong enough to bring permanent relief. Although the injection treatment still has some supporters, it is probably not used as much as it used to be and is not as desirable as surgery in most cases.

Surgery is the most effective treatment. By this means the contents of the sac can be put back in place and a firm covering built up at the weak point so that the organs are kept where they belong. The hernia occasionally returns after such operations, often because of the carelessness of the patient, but modern methods of operating have improved the technique so much that fewer and fewer recurrences develop.

Also it is a nuisance. Nevertheless,

Novelist's Idea of Untidy Lady Is Also Public View

Did you ever notice that when a novelist wants to let you in on the fact that for all her airs a woman isn't quite the lady she pretends to be he usually does it by such small glimpses as these—

The white gloves that aren't quite white. The black dress turned gray at the neckline from powder. The bright nail polish that is chipped around the edges.

The shoes that are run over at the heels. And going into her home, the unwashed dishes sitting around the kitchen.

The ash trays in the living room, overflowing and stale smelling. The wilted flowers in a vase.

PEOPLE JUDGE YOU BY "LITTLE THINGS" The powder puff on the dressing table that is grimy from too long use. The feminine frilly hanging on chair backs, instead of hung neatly in the closet.

The clutter everywhere. By calling attention to just such little facts as these, a novelist can build a picture of a woman who is far away from anyone's picture of what a woman should be.

For a good novelist knows that a woman's personality is judged by little things—things as trivial as too much make-up or a too loud voice. Women should never lose sight of that fact, either. For too often they are judged by their carelessness in little things.

It may not be right to so judge them, but it's common practice.

Eden Knighted By Queen Elizabeth

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II today knighted Anthony Eden in the Order of the Garter. His elevation to England's order of chivalry came at a time of triumph for the 57-year-old foreign secretary, regarded by most as the ultimate successor to Prime Minister Churchill.

The knighting came just before Eden's departure for Paris and the continuing negotiations for putting West German soldiers into the Western defense setup. Eden has been credited with a leading role in the revival of such efforts after the French torpedoed the European Defense Community treaty.

Eden is only the seventh commoner to receive the honor since 1700.

Homecoming At Grace Chapel Is Largely Attended

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

One of the great frustrations of diplomacy in these times is that the settlement of every problem seems to create or accentuate another one.

This is pointed up by the signing of the Anglo-Egyptian agreement ending British occupation of the Suez Canal zone.

Britons are not happy about it, of course. The Beaverbrooks refer to it as a new low of the imperial idea. That is an exaggeration. The low in British imperialism was reached with India, and all else is or will be anticlimax, merely incidents in the rising world tide of independence.

Imperialism, so far as Britain is concerned, hardly exists any more. Even in Central Africa and the West Indies the main idea of imperialism, which was to exploit undeveloped areas for the benefit of a metropolitan nation, is rapidly being reversed, and the responsibilities of control are becoming more of a liability than an asset.

France, the only other Western nation which still controls large non-related areas is beginning to learn this too. That leaves Russia as the only great power still practicing what we grew up to know as imperialism.

There's no use in the British crying over spilled dominions. It was inevitable. Magna Charta, the Boston tea party, the storming of the Bastille—essentially unimportant but highly indicative steps in man's search for freedom—made sure of that.

Lutheran Guild Collects Clothes For World Relief

The October meeting of the Salem Lutheran Guild was held recently in the church hall, with 20 in attendance. Mrs. Merle Kern opened the meeting with scripture reading and prayer, after which the group joined in singing a hymn.

The topic "Social Welfare Work" was presented by Mrs. Harry Wegehoff, Mrs. James Mathews and Mrs. Robert Werner.

Mrs. Leon Gierke presided at the business meeting. The society decided to help pay toward the milk fund for the school. A collection of clothing is to be taken for the Lutheran World Relief to be sent overseas. It was voted to donate to the Community Chest Fund.

Mrs. J. W. Davidsmeyer had charge of the mite box collections. The Guild also voted to donate to the Passavant Hospital bazaar which is to be held Nov. 6 at the "Y."

The meeting was closed with a song by Mrs. Gerald Cook, Mrs. Leon Gierke and Mrs. Arthur Helmerberg. A social hour was then enjoyed with Mrs. Clarence Wellner and Mrs. Harold Willner serving refreshments.

Dr. Thos. Kline Serves On Panel At Convention

Dr. Thomas K. Kline, superintendent of the Illinois School for the Deaf, participated in a panel discussion at the national convention of Mu Iota Sigma Fraternity held at the Sheraton Hotel in Chicago, October 15th and 16th. Mu Iota Sigma is a fraternity of oral teachers of the deaf.

Topics for the convention's three major panels were: Community Agencies Serving the Acoustically Handicapped; The Role of the Administrator and Supervisor as It Affects the Deaf-Oral Program; and Related Areas of Investigation and Study in Special Education.

Top men and women in each of these areas served on the panels.

Miss Hazel Bothwell, a member of Epsilon, the local chapter of Mu Iota Sigma, is National Historian for 1954-55.

Mrs. Ferol Thorn was Epsilon's delegate to the convention.

TRANSACTION INCOMPLETE PITTSBURGH (AP)—A man carefully selected an assortment of groceries at George Parker's store. The bill came to more than $10. Instead of handing over the money, the man asked Parker—at gunpoint—to open the cash register.

On their part, the Arabs—and a lot of objective observers, too—foresee the time when immigration, if continued, and the development of such a dynamic people as the Jews, will make Palestine too small for Israel. For this reason, the Arabs proclaim that they are at continuous war with Israel, despite the U.N. negotiated truce.

The seeds of the new struggle germinate faster and faster.

"RED" SUNDAY

AKRON, Mich. (AP)—Members found this notice tacked on the Methodist Church door:

"Closed by order of the Akron Communist Committee."

They were directed to the farm of Roy Partle. There a toolshed served as a church. The congregation sat on folding chairs. There was no church choir nor organ music, but members sang hymns.

The church's 31-year-old pastor, the Rev. Guenther C. Brannner, said this was somewhat similar to what other Christians throughout the world experienced when freedom of religion was denied.

"The Bible is the antidote for Communism," the pastor said. "Complicity closed more doors than Communism."

Top Russian On U. N. Secretariat, Tchernychev, Desires Anonymity

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The top Russian on the U.N. Secretariat is Ilya S. Tchernychev, a handsome, smiling, brown-haired fellow with a passion for anonymity. It's a safe bet that fewer than 10 per cent of the 3,500 workers on the U.N. staff here could spot 42-year-old Tchernychev in a crowd. He comes and goes without demanding favors and without attracting notice. That's the way he wants it. For nine months Tchernychev has held the $22,000-a-year post of assistant secretary general in charge of the United Nations Department of Political and Security Council Affairs. Most of that time he has spent learning his job, getting acquainted with the members of the staff and generally getting the feel of world politics. Tchernychev was picked by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold. They had met in Stockholm, where Tchernychev first went in 1944 as counselor in the Soviet mission in Sweden and where Hammarskjold was the ranking nonpolitical man in the Swedish Foreign Office. Hammarskjold succeeded Trygve Lie as secretary general a year ago. He found the assistant secretary general for political and security council affairs, Constantin E. Zinchenko, had been on sick leave in Moscow for months. This is the job the Russians asked for when the U.N. was organized eight years ago and a Russian has held it since that time. The first was A. A. Sobolev, who went home because of the illness of his son and who remained to become a Soviet ambassador and an official of the Foreign Office. Zinchenko, an assistant on the Soviet delegation to the General Assembly in 1949, served next until illness caused him to go home. Hammarskjold accepted Zinchenko's resignation for reasons of continued ill health. But Tchernychev appears likely to overcome the tendency of high Russians to fall ill. He is a husky, scrapping man, with a growing command of English and with the appearance of never having been ill a day in his life. He and his wife, who has accompanied him on his travels since he became a diplomat shortly before World War II, have made a place for themselves in the social life of the U.N. set. They appear to be thoroughly enjoying their assignment here. They live in New York City and have a 15-year-old daughter in school in Russia. Tchernychev insists there is nothing in his life that needs writing up. There are far more important people around here, he says, who should have space in the public press. Tchernychev was born near Tashkent, in Soviet Central Asia. Graduated from the faculty of history of Moscow University in 1940, he decided he wanted to be a diplomat and was accepted for training. He began his career as an attaché of the Soviet Embassy in Germany in 1940. When the Germans invaded the Soviet Union the next year he left Berlin with the Soviet mission under safe conduct pass. From 1941 to 1944 he served in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Soviet Union, dealing with questions relating to the countries of Europe and of the Middle East. In 1944 he was appointed to the Soviet Mission in Sweden. He was made minister in that post in 1945, and in 1947 he became Soviet ambassador to Sweden. In 1949 he became adviser of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Moscow and subsequently served as deputy to the head of Tass, the Soviet news agency. He left the Tass post to come to the U.N. upon the appointment by Hammarskjold. Homecoming day will be held by the Literberry Baptist church on Sunday, Oct. 24, with all members, former members, and the public cordially invited to gather for the services and a basket dinner which will be served at noon. Rev. William J. Boston of this city is pastor of the Literberry church. Sunday School will be held at 10 a. m. followed by the dinner at noon. An afternoon program will be held with Rev. William Sealock, pastor of the Winchester Baptist church, as guest speaker. GLASGOW WOMAN IN PASSAWANT HOSPITAL Mrs. Lowell Hanback, who resides south of Glasgow, entered Passawant Memorial Area hospital Monday in preparation for surgery Wednesday, Oct. 20. A nautical miles is 6,076.10 feet compared with 5,280 for a land mile.

DELIGHTFUL DRESSAGE—Mrs. Lis Hartel will ride Jubilee in the National Horse Show, opening at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 2. Mrs. Hartel of Copenhagen placed second in the 1952 Olympic Games in the art of putting a mount through intricate maneuvers and changes of gait and pace without apparent guidance. She won the world championship in Germany this past summer. (NEA)

Worthwhile Club And Families At Strickler Home

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Strickler and family entertained members of the Worthwhile club and their families at a wieners roast and donuts and cocoa spread recently at their home. The meeting was opened by the president who led in the pledge to the flag. The minutes of the last meeting were read and roll call was answered by naming an autumn. Mrs. Joe DeGroot became a member of the club at this meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carpenter entertained the club with a fish fry on Oct. 17. Mrs. Roy Newbery, program chairman, introduced Major John Newbery, just back from Korea who showed pictures of the places he visited in Japan and gave an interesting talk in connection with the pictures. Guests present were Major and Mrs. John Newbery and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Joe DeGroot and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Shumacher and family, Henry Wax and Mary Margaret Wax. The next meeting will be a potluck dinner at the home of Mrs. Everett Long.

Experts Test Methods To Make U.S. Soldiers More Efficient As Killers

By REM PRICE

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Francis E. Jones wants to make a more efficient killer out of the American soldier.

In his opinion, a doughfoot who uses two bullets to kill one man is 50 per cent off.

A psychologist on loan from George Washington University to the Army, Jones is evolving and testing methods to make more competent killers.

"We called in 100 experts," said Jones. "They were skilled combat veterans of Korea, Europe and the south Pacific. We asked them what sort of targets a man could expect to encounter in battle."

"After interviewing them, we broke down targets into two types: detectable and undetectable. We found that of the detectable variety 25 per cent were stationary and appeared at 250 to 500 yards. Another 25 per cent were moving targets at ranges of 50 to 300 yards, and 50 per cent were targets which just popped up anywhere from 50 to 250 yards."

"Then we found," Jones continued, "that combat involved a large number of targets that can be located, or deduced, from the lay of the land or a puff of smoke or dust."

On the basis of his interviews, Jones now is trying to set up a training course to teach men to locate and destroy both types of targets, whether it is daylight or dark.

Jones believes that teaching a realistic course which will train men to locate a target—say a hidden machine gun—is a valuable morale factor too.

"If a soldier is unable to pick up targets quickly, he becomes discouraged and retreats to his hole. Exposure without results would make any sensible man get down."

"Fear is an important factor in combat. If a man is in his hole doing nothing but getting the shakes, he isn't very useful. We believe a man should be doing something. If you can keep him busy scanning for targets, it will take his mind off his fear."

"The man who keeps busy is the man who will fight. In any combat outfit you'll notice there are some men who will keep busy no matter what the situation."

"When they aren't fighting, they write letters, trying to clean themselves up, clean their gear or just about anything to keep their hands busy. The men who do nothing are the ones who tend to brood. These are the ones who crack up."

"I made the invasion at Tarawa with the Marines in World War II. When we were going into the beach I noticed that the troops crouched in the boat were scared. The only man who was really calm was the Navy coxswain. He was the only man who had something to do and yet he was the man most exposed. As soon as the troops hit the beach and had a job to do, they were all right."

Right now Jones is developing a

He is also building a fantastic assault course out of discarded pinball machines, batteries and relays.

Targets controlled by switches pop up all over the course, presenting silhouettes of enemy soldiers who might be encountered by advancing troops.

Some of the targets are mounted on wheels and appear only briefly, like men running through a trench line. Others jump up as from fox-holes.

Since the terrain is left untouched with its weeds, high grass and brush, there is no way a man can tell in advance where a target will appear.

The neat part about Jones' course is that the targets fall over when hit.

Former Waverly Couple To Return For Anniversary

JERSEYVILLE. — Mr. and Mrs. Burleigh W. Boyer of 407 West Arch street, Jerseyville, will observe the golden anniversary of their marriage, Sunday, Oct. 24, and the observance of the event will be held

—NEA Telephoto
JOE HEAP PENTY-HEP—Notre Dame's Joe Heap strikes through left side of Michigan State's line for a gain of three yards in the third quarter of game in South Bend, Indiana. Number sixty is Notre Dame's Frank Varrichione. Notre Dame won game 20 to 19.

formally at Waverly, the place of their birth, and where they have a number of relatives and old friends residing.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Boyer was Miss Emma Scott, the daughter of the late George and Anna Scott of the Waverly vicinity. She was born near Waverly Oct. 17, 1882.

Mr. Boyer is the son of the late

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyer and was born on a farm about one and a half miles from Waverly. He was born May 11, 1880.

The couple was married Oct. 27, 1904, at the Pacific hotel in Jacksonville, Ill. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Robert Hartwick of that city.

Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Boyer began farming on a farm near Waverly where they remained for the ensuing eight years. After that period, they removed to a farm near Manchester, where they continued to farm for the next three years.

In Jerseyville 35 Years

Thirty-five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Boyer came to Jerseyville where they have since resided. Until a few years ago, they operated a farm one mile southwest of Jerseyville, where Boyer engaged in the business of raising small fruits and operating an orchard. He was well known in Illinois as an authority on bee keeping and was affiliated a number of years ago with the Illinois Bee Keepers Association as an officer of that organization. Bee keeping was one of his hobbies, and he kept a large number of hives at his farm northeast of Jerseyville.

A few years ago, Boyer sold his farm and bought a home on West Arch street, where he and Mrs. Boyer have continued to reside. The couple have no children. Boyer has one brother, George Boyer of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Boyer has one brother, Bert E. Scott of San Antonio, Texas.

The observance of the anniversary at Waverly will be held in the American Legion hall in that city. A dinner will be served there at noon to a number of relatives and intimate friends of the couple. Following the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Boyer will hold open house and greet guests from 2 to 5 p.m.

UNIT INVITES ANY INTERESTED TO JOIN VOLUNTEER WORKERS

Anyone in the Winchester community, within or outside Scott county, may join the volunteer service group of which Mrs. Orin Duncan, Winchester, is chairman. It is necessary to obtain an entry blank to fill out and present Tuesday morning, Oct. 26 when the new orientation course will be given for new volunteers at the hospital starting at 9 a.m.

The blanks may be obtained from the volunteer superintendent, Mrs. Mary Zachary at the Jacksonville State hospital. They should be filled out and returned to the hospital. Lunch will be served at noon Tuesday to those taking the course.

Country More Important Than Party: Stevenson

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson says the Democrats will insist in the congressional election battle that "it is more important to be right than Republican."

The 1952 Democratic Presidential candidate told a campaign audience Tuesday night that President Eisenhower had urged continued Republican control of Congress. He added:

"I cannot believe that he (Eisenhower) has in his heart surrendered so completely to the exigencies of political regularity that he honestly feels that even the issues he believes in have become so unimportant that a party label is the only badge of honor."

"I cannot believe that one who has insisted so properly again and again that he wants to be the President of all the people really asks them now that they count the worst Republican a better servant of the people than the best Democrat."

"We shall insist that in 1954, as always, being a Republican candidate is no excuse for inadequacy, that country is more important than party, that it is more important to be right than Republican."

Stevenson, who spoke at a Democratic rally, lauded Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) as a "statesman who stands for everything that is decent and courageous." He said the senator's Republican opponent, Joseph T. Mruk, "is against almost every principle and policy of the present administration."

Stevenson quoted Agriculture Secretary Benson as saying he is "confident the farmer's vote is not for sale." He commented:

"That's a pretty hard slap at farmers. Of course, their vote is not for sale. But does the secretary expect the farmers just to take the punch and never question why?"

CZECHS ACCEPT U.S. WHEAT

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia has agreed to accept 20,000 tons of American wheat, valued at $1,700,000, as its share of U. S. aid to victims of last summer's European floods, the League of Red Cross Societies announced today.

The value of American aid to Communist Eastern Europe thus rose to eight million dollars, not including the cost of sea transportation.

ONE MINE FATALITY

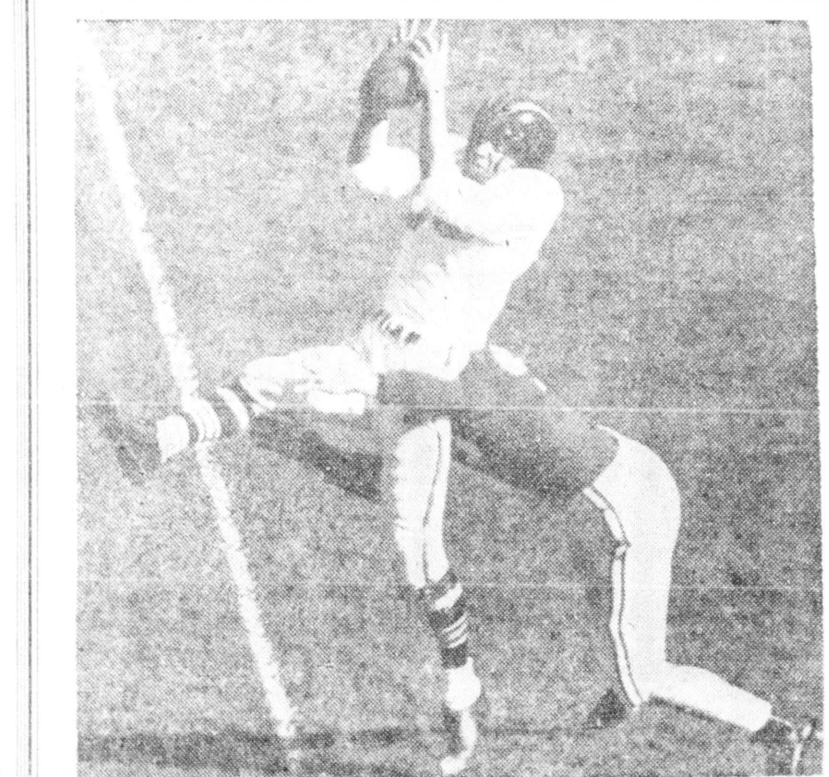

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—One fatal coal mine accident occurred in Illinois during September, the State Mines and Minerals Department said today. The total for the year is 19.

The September death occurred in a Montgomery County mine and was caused by a haulage accident.

DANCER TO WED OIL MAN

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movie dancer Vera Ellen, 28, and Victor Rothschild, 31, Pasadena oil man, will be married soon.

She announced their engagement Tuesday night. No date was set.

Two Of Nation's Top Ball Carriers Face Each Other Saturday

Dark Becomes Giants' Highest Paid Player

NEW YORK — A ball-carrying duel between the Big Ten's two best rushers will space Saturday's pivotal conference battle between the unbeaten football forces of Ohio State and Wisconsin.

Official league statistics released Wednesday credit Ohio State's Bobby Watkins with a net of 266 yards in three loop games with Wisconsin's Alan (The Horse) Ameche second with 200 yards in two games.

Watkins, the halfback built like a fullback (5 feet 9 and 196 pounds), also is the top Big Ten scorer with 5 touchdowns for 30 points.

The 215-pound Ameche, who operates at fullback, in two games has carried 35 times for a 5.7 yard average per smash, while Watkins in 3 games has hauled off 5 more times, 40, for a 6.6 average.

Watkins' Buckeye team-mate, quarterback Dave Leggett, leads the conference in total offense with 96 yards rushing and 196 passing for a 292 total.

Another rushing leader is fullback Bob Mc Namara of undefeated Minnesota with a two-game total of 183, but the league's best average is 8.9 per try by another Gopher, He is fullback Ken Yackel, who carried 12 times against Illinois for 107 yards.

Top passer with a two-game record of 16 completions in 35 tosses for 237 yards is Indiana quarterback Florian Helinski.

Michigan's Ron Kramer, sophomore end, leads in punting with a 43-yard average on six kicks; Michigan State end Jim Hinesly is tops in pass receiving with nine for 164 yards; quarterback Earl Matoack of Michigan State is best in punt returns with 104 yards in four tries for a 26-yard average; and Iowa fullback Earl Smith leads in kickoff returns, 95 yards on five runs.

Northwestern, like Pitt, has one victory and three defeats on the season's record book. Two of those losses were against Southern California 12-7 and Minnesota 26-7. Pitt lost to the Trojans by a 27-7 score and to Minnesota 46-7.

Ted Kuzewski is the first member of the Cincinnati Redlegs to lead the major leagues in home runs since Fred Odwell in 1950. Odwell hit nine that year.

Pittsburgh End Voted Lineman Of Week By AP

PITTSBURGH — Five days ago Fred Glatz was a lowly reserve end on a team which hadn't won a ball game.

Wednesday the 190-pounder from the University of Pittsburgh was the Associated Press lineman of the week.

The 21-year-old junior was voted the honor by sportswriters and broadcasters for the running, blocking, pass-snaring and fumble-grabbing which helped the Panthers defeat Navy 21-19 Saturday.

"Things just fell right," he said modestly. "Well" is the word. He copied two Navy fumbles, thereby cutting off as many scoring threats by the Midgies. And he set up Pitt's first score after coming into the game as a sub.

He gave credit to his teammates for the victory.

"We were determined to win it," he said, adding that he felt he played his usual game and was favored by the breaks.

Glatz set up Pitt's first score with a 54-yard run in the Navy game. "It was the first quarter," Glatz said. "He (Quarterback Corny Slaters) threw the ball, and nobody hit me, so I just started to run."

He was deep in Navy's territory before he was stopped, and the Panthers went on from there for the upset.

He thinks the Panthers will beat Northwestern this coming Saturday if they play as they did against Navy. He volunteered a big "but," saying:

"That's going to be a tough one. I hear they lost their close games on fumbles, and if they lose close games that way, they must have something."

Cassady Most Underrated Back In Nation; Ameche

MADISON, Wis. — One of the nation's best collegiate fullbacks thinks one of his opponents in the Midwest's top football game Saturday is "the most underrated back in the country."

Alan (The Horse) Ameche, Wisconsin's battering candidate for All-America honors, is a booster of Howard Cassady, the 168-pound Ohio State halfback whom he'll oppose Saturday at Columbus, Ohio, in a game which will do much towards deciding the Big Ten championship and Rose Bowl team.

"Just check the stories of Ohio State's games," said Ameche. "Who's the guy who always comes through with the key run or the pass interception when they need it? Cassady, that's who."

"He should be All-America for sure."

Cassady, with Bobby Watkins, packs the Buckeye's wallop on the ground. The red-headed scatback, in addition to averaging 4.6 yards in 80 ball-carrying attempts, also is Ohio State's No. 1 pass receiver with eight catches for 103 yards.

Ed Furgol Forced To Withdraw For AMPOL Open

SYDNEY — Ed Furgol of Clayton, Mo., the American Open champion, was forced to withdraw from the $3,300 AMPOL Open Golf tournament Wednesday because of a ruptured vein in his right arm. Furgol said specialists had ordered him not to play for three to six weeks.

Three other members of a visiting American pro team trailed two Australian unknowns at the end of the first round of the tournament.

Frank Phillips, a Sydney assistant professional, and Amateur Ted Riney, also of Sydney, shot 69, on the tough, par 72 Alkie course to take the lead. Next to them was Australian Open Champion Ossie Pickworth with a 70.

Leading the Americans was Tommy Bolt of Houston, Texas, with 72, matching the score of Australia's Norman Von Nida. Bolt developed fibrositis in his right shoulder Tuesday and was a doubtful starter.

Dutch Harrison of St. Louis shot 63 and Marty Furgol of Sherman Oaks, Calif., had 75.

Peter Thompson of Melbourne, British open and match play champion, crashed for 40 on the outward nine and finished with 78. There are 100 players in the tournament.

Ray Hanson Replies To NCAA Reprimand Action

MACOMB, Ill. — Ray Hanson, athletic director at Western Illinois State, said the Corn Bowl game is not regarded as a post-season contest, in replying Wednesday night to a reprimand by the NCAA.

The NCAA council disciplined Western for alleged violation of NCAA bylaws by participating in the 1953 Corn Bowl game at Bloomington, Ill. The game was on Nov. 26, and was not recognized by the NCAA extra events committee.

Hanson's statement:

"It has been the practice for a number of years for the leading Illinois team in the IAC (Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference) to be one of the participants in the annual Corn Bowl classic on Thanksgiving Day, held at Bloomington, Ill., sponsored by the American Legion.

"Since we have followed that practice in the conference, Eastern State, Normal University, Southern Illinois University and Western have played.

"To our knowledge, the NCAA disregarded it in the past. First of all, the game was played before Dec. 1, and therefore is not regarded as a post-season game. It could have been included in our regular schedules.

"In addition to topping the 2,000 mark for his 51st years as a jockey, Shoe maker boasted his 1954 total of wins to 336. He has ridden 80 winners already during the current Tanforan meet.

Arnold Johnson May File Suit Against Syndicate

CHICAGO — Arnold Johnson, Chicago industrialist who wanted to move the Philadelphia Athletics franchise to Kansas City, said Wednesday night that he is considering a suit for "substantial" damages against the Philadelphia syndicate that bought the A's.

"I feel that I have been wronged by the Philadelphia group who suddenly appeared on the scene, and propose to get my legal remedy," Johnson said in a statement.

"Mr. Charles J. Biddle of the Philadelphia law firm of Drinker, Biddle and Reath, has been engaged for the purpose of studying the advisability of filing suit against the Philadelphia individuals now in the picture, not only for the cash damages sustained by me, but also on the grounds that this group joined together to induce a breach of the contract which I made in good faith for the purchase of the A's."

"In view of the indicated advance ticket sale in Kansas City of almost two million dollars, the measure of my damages should be substantial," Arthur Rosenberg, one of the Philadelphia group who has been acting as spokesman, said he wanted time to consider the Johnson statement personally before issuing any rebuttal and said the syndicate as a whole probably would feel likewise.

Rosenberg said a meeting of the syndicate may be called Thursday to discuss the Johnson statement.

Roy Mack, executive vice president of the Athletics, was not available immediately for comment.

Rosenberg earlier said Roy Mack had been asked to contact American League President Harbridge immediately concerning league approval of the sale.

LEAVE IT TO A FILLY

WILMINGTON, Del. — The horse that paid the longest price at Delaware Park race track this year was not a winner. A filly named Blotto, seeking her first victory, led for half the race. She weakened, however, and finished second. Her place price was $212.60. Had Blotto won the race she would have paid $533.80 for a two dollar ticket.

Johnny Saxton Strips Kid Gavilan Of Title In Dull 15-Rounder

PHILADELPHIA — Sturdy Johnny Saxton, fighting a cautious counter-punching battle, stripped listless Kid Gavilan of his world welterweight title Wednesday night on a unanimous decision in a dull 15-round bout at Convention Hall.

The 24-year-old new champion, a New York Golden Glove grad, won the votes of all three officials after a battle marked by much holding, wrestling, tagging and shoving. At times it looked more like a wrestling match than a fight.

"It was a lousy fight," said Chairman Frank Wiener of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission. "But I guess they did as well as they could."

The disappointing crowd of 7,909, paying a gross gate of $57,121 to see the nationally televised bout, Philadelphia area blacked out cheered the upset victory by a boy who has done most of his main bout fighting in Philadelphia.

From time to time through the dull battle, boos rang out as the fans reacted by stomping on the floor, trying to stimulate a little more action.

Only in the closing minutes, when the Cuba Keed stared his only real Gavilan-style burst of action did the customers warm up. The final burst had them cheering at the end, the only real outburst of the scrap.

Saxton fought a counter-punching scrap, moving inside and trying to batter Gavilan when he surged in. Sometimes he succeeded, but often he did nothing more than tie up his manager for a prolonged wrestling session. Hans Schmidt and Antonio Rocca could have done much better.

The decision seemed to strike a receptive chord with the crowd, but it didn't agree with the cards of the working press, many of whom had disagreed with another Philadelphia decision against Ezzard Charles by Jersey Joe Walcott two years back.

Referee Pete Pantaleo scored it 9-1-6, Judge Jimmy Mina 7-6-2 and Referee Nat Lonnson 8-6-1, all for Saxton. The Associated Press scorecard was 8-4-3 for Gavilan.

A quick check of the boxing writers at ringside showed 12 of the first 13 thought Gavilan had won. Gavilan, who had held the title since he defeated Bratton in New York, May 18, 1951, did not show his customary speed of hand or foot, except for brief flashes. Perhaps he was weak at 145½ pounds, 2½ pounds under the welter class limit. Saxton seemed strong at 148½.

The champ had gone into the match a 7 to 5 favorite after a reported late surge for the challenger. Earlier in the week he had been 2 to 1 favorite.

ASHLAND, Ohio — For admittedly giving a drug to key players "to pep them up" before "important games," Cloyce E. Taylor was out of his job Wednesday as basketball coach at Ashland High School.

The 45-year-old Taylor, winner of 157 games against 33 losses in his nine years at Ashland, conceded to a board of education on meeting Tuesday he had engaged in the practice for several years.

The board asked for—and got—his resignation, despite Taylor's protest that he was being "railroaded."

Taylor told Board President Richard Bear the drugs he gave were a few starting players was called dexedrine sulphate. The drug, which comes in tablets, is defined as a central nervous system stimulant.

The board said boys they questioned who had taken the drug said it gave them a "high pitched" sensation.

In Ohio tournament competition, Taylor's teams twice have advanced to district championship rounds.

Willie Shoemaker String At 2,000

SAN BRUNO, Calif. — Willie Shoemaker ran his lifetime string of winners to 2,000 Wednesday by booting home three at Tanforan.

The hard riding Texan had been shooting for the mark for the past two days and reached it in the 6th race when he brought Florence House home a winner.

In addition to topping the 2,000 mark for his 51st years as a jockey, Shoe maker boasted his 1954 total of wins to 336. He has ridden 80 winners already during the current Tanforan meet.

A ROVING LION

DETROIT — Fullback Bill Bowman of the Detroit Lions in the National Football League, claims to have many hometowns. He lists Richmond, Va., Birmingham, Ala., San Diego, Calif., and Knoxville, Tenn., as his "residences."

Scribe Picks Illini Wisconsin To Win

Iowa 20, Indiana 7—The Hawkeyes finished strong in their 20-14 loss to Ohio State. They'll be ready for the Hoosiers, who may prove stubborn hosts. Despite the loss to Missouri, Bernie Crimmins' Indiana team is no pushover.

Purdue 14, Michigan State 13—The Spartans can move that ball as they proved against Notre Dame, but Purdue still has a good line and Len Dawson. The Bolle-makers just couldn't overcome penalties and Billy Lowe's record-setting 98-yard scoring run on an interception against Wisconsin MSC should brush up on its place-kicking.

Illinois 21, Syracuse 12—The Illini finally find somebody their own size and should win their first victory in five starts.

Northwestern 20, Pitt 13—Despite Pitt's upset of Navy, we think Northwestern will prove too much a desperate Wildcat for the satisfied Panthers.

Marquette 19, Fordham 12—It's homecoming for the Warriors, who may have found their stride with a blazing finish against Holy Cross.

CHICAGO — The old Midwest swami, who missed on Northwestern and Indiana last weekend on bad breaks, cautiously conjures for the coming Saturday:

Wisconsin 19, Ohio State 14—This looks a blue chip showdown for the Big Ten title and a Rose Bowl bid. The Buckeyes can match Wisconsin's Alan (The Horse) Ameche, with Bobby Watkins and Howie Cassady, but the Badgers have a passing edge. The unsung guys in front can settle this one as the Big Ten's two best lines lock horns.

Minnesota 21, Michigan 7—The Little Brown Jug battle finds the unbeaten Gophers a visiting favorite for the first time since the Bernie Bierman era. Murray Warmath has done a brilliant job of waking the sleeping Giants of the Northland. Michigan "lucked" to a 7-0 victory over Northwestern, trimmed earlier by Minnesota, 26-7. The game is at Ann Arbor which may extend the Gophers, who scored three of their four victories at home.

FAN BREEZES

BY BILL MERRIS

We were a little disturbed when we didn't get our weekly advice through the regular channels from Tippy the Tipster. However after a couple phone calls we were able to get in contact with prognosticator and it didn't take long to find out why he hadn't gotten in touch with us. He simply didn't want to go out on the limb on three of the local games and therefore was sassed we took our foot off his avoiding us. But with a little per-hest, let him up and he came through with these predictions.

One of the games he was shy-ing away from was tonight's Crimmon-Feitshans battle. However Tippy finally agreed if the Jacks line plays the kind of game tonight they did against Notre Dame the Crimmons should beat the Capital City entry by one TD. In tonight's other game, unbeaten Northwestern should whip Vir-den.

The game of the week for the local fans will be the Bluffs-Rout conflict, Friday night. Tippy says this should be a toss-up and we'll have to go along with him. However for the records sake, he says Rout will be the first eight-man team to defeat the Bluffs entry. This will be one to watch.

Other games Friday night: Carrollton should take Roodhouse by two, Arenzville over Chapin by one, Pittsfield to top Jerseyville by one, Winchester to edge Pleasant Hill by one, Lanphier over Beardstown by a pair, Mt. Sterling over Petersburg by two, Virginia to take Franklin in an eleven man game by a pair, Greenfield over White Hall by one and Chandlerville to win its first game of the year against Mercedosa.

In Saturday afternoon action, the Illinois College Blueboys will lose to Rose Poly by one and I.S.D. Tigers will whip Ohio Deaf by three TD's. This takes care of everything but Tippy's bus fare out of town.

Coach John Chapman has been sending his basketball candidates through running drills these past two weeks. He will take all non-football players to the gym starting Monday. Some 120 names are on the roster but several haven't been showing up for the six-day sprint around the cinder track and this list is slowly getting smaller.

Judge Rules Cal-Can Wrestler In This State

CHICAGO — The Illinois State Athletic Commission's ban on women wrestlers was ruled illegal Wednesday.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher handed down the decision in the case of Rose Hesseltine, a 23-year-old Chicagoan who wrestles in 32 other states under the name of Rose Roman.

The State Athletic Commission had refused to issue Miss Hesseltine a license to wrestle in Illinois.

Judge Fisher agreed with Miss Hesseltine's contention that the state has no right to discriminate between men and women grapplers.

The judge held that the legislature should write the prohibition into law if it wishes to keep women out of the ring.

Bernard Genis, assistant Illinois attorney general, said Fisher's ruling would be appealed to a higher court.

The State Athletic Commission has barred female wrestlers on the ground that some laws protect women from injury and overwork. Commission officials have argued that if women can't work in mines, they certainly can't wrestle for a living.

Miss Hesseltine said the ruling would open the way for about 150 women wrestlers to perform in Illinois.

Court Rules Grid Parlay Cards Are Not Gambling

CHICAGO — A Municipal Court judge Wednesday ruled that football parlay cards are not gambling devices unless or until they have been filled out by a bettor.

The defendants in the case were Frank Lahm and Daniel Adair. They were arrested in downtown Chicago while they were sitting in a car in a no-parking zone. The policeman, Nicholas Juric, testified he found 1,200 parlay cards in the auto but that he saw no money change hands.

The defense attorney, Max Lurie, argued that the cards were not gambling devices because they bore printed notations that they were "for new information only."

Judge Oscar S. Caplan dismissed a charge of possession of gambling equipment.

They aren't gambling devices," he commented. "These cards just give information."

Adair was fined 10 and costs for illegal parking.

Kraushaarmen Seek 4th Straight Victory At Flyer's Expense

Probable Starting Lineups:

Jacksonville	Feitshans
Knights	LE
Woodward	LT
Prather	LG
Roegge	C
Hill	RG
Marquard	RT
Hudson	RE
Lewis	QB
Trier	LHB
Dawson or Scott	RHB
Dyer	FB

Coach Bob Kraushaar's Jacksonville Crimmons journey to Springfield tonight for a 7:30 encounter with Feitshans. A win tonight will put the Crimmons in the drivers seat as far as the Central Conference is concerned.

The Crimmon coach plan to go with the same lineup that has scored three straight wins after tying Pittsfield in the opener and losing to Macomb in the second game. Knight and Hudson will return to the flanker positions, Woodward and Marquard will be at tackles, Prather and Hill at guards and Roegge at center. Bill Lewis will direct the team from the quarterback spot. Trier will be at one half with either Dawson or Scott at the other and Dyer at full back.

Jack Fairfield has been looking good in practice and will see action at halfback as well as quarter.

In Feitshans the Crim face as tough a team as they'll run up against this year. Ti Flyers are strong up the middle, marked by the fine guard play of Hunter and Moreski. However the two linemen will find the center of the Jacks line equally tough.

The only game the Flyers lost was 14-12 to Springfield High. Since then the Feitshans eleven has defeated Rushville, Lanphier, Beardstown and Cathedral.

Both teams appear to be about equal. They possess strong lines to go with fast, hard running backs. Flyer fullback Wilson is a very good runner as is Crimmon's hard running Skip Dyer. Both quarterbacks are fast and good passers. The four halfbacks leave nothing to choose from. All are fast and hard to bring down.

Game time is 7:30 at the Memorial Stadium.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (P) — Share prices rallied as much as four points Wednesday as the stock market staged its best advance in more than a month.

Spirited bidding brought good-sized gains in the steel, motor, oil, rail, airline and television groups. A long list of specialties also posted sharp advances.

Helping the market along was a good quota of favorable earnings reports and dividend increases. Concern over the possible outcome of the forthcoming election appeared to have been forgotten.

Brokers were inclined to attribute much of the market's strength to the recent advance in the railroad group.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed $1.10 to $136.70, the best gain since Sept. 13. The rail component was up 70 cents to a new high for the year of $102.20. The industrials added $1.80 and the utilities 30 cents.

Bullish forces found additional comfort in the volume figure. Transactions totaled 2,380,000 shares against 1,900,000 Tuesday.

American Stock Exchange prices also rose. In the plus column were American Republic, Colonial Airlines, Fairchild Camera, Hazeltine Corp., Humble Oil, Pittsburgh Metallurgical and St. Lawrence Corp. Volume was 640,000 shares, the same as it was Tuesday.

Corporate and foreign dollar bonds were strong but U. S. Treasury issues dipped.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK MARKET REPORT

CHICAGO (P) — Butchers and hogs gained 25 to 50 cents Wednesday as hog receipts fell below expectations for the second straight day. Top was $19.35, paid for three choice hogs, the highest price in more than a week.

Salable receipts at 7,000 head fell 2,000 under the advance estimate. Buyers paid $19.00 to $19.25 for the bulk of choice 180 to 270 pound butchers. Sows sold from $15.50 to $18.25.

Several loads of prime steers reached $30.00, the first time any offerings have commanded that figure since May 5. Steers and heifers generally were steady to 50 cents higher. Salable receipts in the cattle section totaled 15,000.

Most choice to low-prime steers sold at $24.75 to $27.50 while good to low-choice types were $21.50 to $24.50. Heifers topped at $27.50. Demand for cows was slow with utility and commercial kinds going at $9.50 to $13.50 and canners and cutters at $7.00 to $9.50. Some light canners sold down to $6.00.

Vealers were steady to strong at $18.00 to $23.00 for good and choice and $6.00 to $17.00 for cull to commercial.

Salable sheep receipts totaled 1,500. All classes held steady. A few high prime native woolled lambs reached $21.25. Most good and choice kinds were taken at $18.50 to $19.50.

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS

GRAIN MARKET

PATTER REVERSES

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (P) — Soybeans advanced, feed grains held about steady and wheat and rye declined on the Board of Trade Wednesday. Losses in rye were fairly sharp. The market reversed the pattern of earlier days this week, during which wheat advanced and soybeans and corn fell back under rather severe selling pressure.

Prices generally were higher at the start in all pits, wheat and rye scoring fair sized gains. It wasn't long, however, before buying power waned. These two cereals were at the day's lows at the finish.

Wheat closed 3/4 to 1 cent lower, corn 1/4-1/2 higher, oats unchanged to 1/4 higher, rye 2 1/2-3 1/2 lower, soybeans 2 to 3 cents higher and lard 10 cents lower to $1.10 a hundred pounds higher.

The big gain in lard came in the October future. This was the last day for trading in that month and there was quite a rush upon the part of previous short sellers to get out. Loose lard advanced 1/4 to sell at 15 1/2 cents a pound, best price since Sept. 20.

Failure of a single car load of soybeans to arrive on track at Chicago was a factor in the demand for beans. Beans also were aided by a firmer tone in cash and oil and cash meal.

There appeared to be quite a bit of export demand stirring for soybeans. Denmark took 80,000 bushels. Export circles reported receiving inquiries from West Germany, Holland, Japan and Formosa. Portugal is scheduled to buy 350,000 bushels Oct. 26.

Corn started out lower. Cash dealers reported bookings of 63,000 bushels on a to-arrive basis overnight. However, there were no bookings reported during the day. Cash corn receipts were quite large at 158 cars but the market held up better than Tuesday, losing only 1 cent.

Wheat's slump appeared to be mainly a technical matter coming after its advance in the two previous sessions. A slight pick up in hedging pressure was reported. The drop in rye was attributed to selling upon the part of those who have become discouraged at the failure of the long talked about business with West Germany to develop. Rye also was lower at Winnipeg.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (P) — Corporate and foreign dollar bonds were strong Wednesday. But the Treasury bond market declined.

Railroads continued Tuesday's leadership of the market advance. However, "Big Board" volume dipped to $3,245,000 par value from $3,330,000 Tuesday. Utilities and industrials were also generally higher, though some investment quality corporates eased.

Nixon slapped at a statement by former Democratic presidential candidate Adlai E. Stevenson that United States diplomacy is "at an all-time low," saying:

"I believe the accomplishments of Secretary of State Dulles and President Eisenhower in the past month—I mean the development of our new ties in Europe—are some of the most monumental actions in our history."

He said the voters' choice in the election lies between Trumanism and the Eisenhower policies. The people of Illinois, he said he believes, will decide in favor of Eisenhower and Meek.

Nixon said he could see no fundamental differences in the political philosophies of Eisenhower and Meek.

Meek has gone on record in opposition to the Eisenhower administration on at least one issue, the Bricker amendment to have Congress pass on all treaties with foreign powers.

But the vice president scotched reports that the President and Meek differ on what Nixon termed "major issues."

"The President is the last man in the world to believe that a man in Congress should be a rubber stamp," Nixon declared. "There must be some room for disagreement on some issues. But I do believe that Joe Meek and the President have no fundamental disagreements on major issues."

He added "Joe Meek's philosophy on domestic and international policies are very close to President Eisenhower's."

"I don't question Sen. Douglas' integrity, but I do deplore his belief in the left wing-ADA policies."

Thursday, the Nixon-Meek party will go by chartered plane to Champaign for a luncheon, then on to Rock Island for a political speech at Augustana College Thursday night.

Nixon is scheduled to leave Rock Island by plane Friday morning.

Russia, Red China Show No Evidence Of Genuine Change

as "this supreme commander who in the hedgerows of Normandy wielded a mighty thunderbolt of Zeus and now like a light-giving Prometheus is giving atoms for peace to make America memorabilia in the promotion of the good life."

He gravely said that science has provided weapons that mean that "not only is the whole nation in arms, but the whole nation is constantly exposed to the threat of destruction."

"We have arrived at that point, my friends," he said, "when war does not present the possibility of victory or defeat. War would present to us only the alternative in degrees of destruction. There could be no truly successful outcome."

Douglas, Meek Race May Tip Scales In State Legislature

CHICAGO (P) — Some politicians feel that as the Illinois race for U. S. senator goes, so may go party chances for gains in the state's House representation.

This feeling that the outcome of the contest between Democratic Sen. Paul H. Douglas and Republican challenger Joseph T. Meek may tip the scales in a House race or two is strongest in Chicago.

But close races are in prospect in at least three downstate districts, and a strong tie for either Meek or Douglas could have telling effect.

Both parties say publicly they hope to increase their present shares of the 25-member Illinois delegation. The Republicans now have 16 seats, the Democrats 9.

Thus, it might appear that the GOP is more vulnerable. But actually, as a general rule, the Republican congressmen face less serious competition than their Democratic colleagues.

The exceptions are Reps. Fred E. Busbey in Chicago's 3rd District, Charles W. Vursell of Salem in the 23rd District, C. W. (Runt) Bishop of Carterville in the 25th, and perhaps William E. McVey, Chicago's 4th, and Timothy P. Sheehan in the 11th, Chicago.

The Democratic House members who may be in for trouble are Barratt O'Hara in Chicago's 2nd District, Sidney R. Yates of the 9th District, Chicago, and Peter F. Mack of Carlinville in the 21st.

All of these races could be unusually close.

Some of the contestants, themselves, say their districts are very close.

For instance, James C. Murray, the assistant Cook County state's attorney who has challenged Rep. Busbey, said Wednesday "I'm in a horse race. I feel I'm overcoming my main handicap of not being known in the district. I think Sen. Douglas is going well, and that should help me."

His opponent said he views Murray's campaign seriously, although he is confident of holding a majority. The big problem, Busbey says, is getting out the voters who favor him but think he doesn't need their help.

O'Hara and former Rep. Richard B. Vail admit they are running a close race. Yates is facing his most serious challenge from Ralph Lee Goodman, who has rousing support from the Citizens for Eisenhower and regular GOP workers.

Harry H. Semerow, 38-year-old plastic products manufacturer is putting on a strong drive against Sheehan, and former Rep. William A. Rowan is trying hard for a come back against McVey.

One of the most dramatic races is that which pits Mack against former Rep. Edward H. Jenison of Paris in the 21st District. Mack is waging a personal campaign for re-election. He is faced with a determined GOP organization drive for Jenison, and lacks the aid of the 1952 Democratic state patronage machine which has turned into a Republican factor against him.

Democratic state leaders are unusually optimistic about upset chances in the 23rd District where Vursell faces Albert R. Imle of Hillsboro, a lawyer, building materials merchant and former FBI agent, and in the 25th District where Kenneth J. Gray of West Frankfort, an auto dealer, opposes Bishop.

Imle and Gray are making the most of voter dissatisfaction over economic troubles in this Southern Illinois area, centered in drought, shrunken farm income and a relatively high level of unemployment.

Service Clubs Give Assistance To Chest Drive

Jewell A. Mann, general chairman of the Morcan County Community Chest, announced Wednesday that the members of the Exchange, Lions, Kiwanis, and Rotary clubs in Jacksonville have all agreed to assist in the current campaign.

"We sincerely appreciate this support," the chairman said. "By utilizing the large manpower of these clubs, the task of raising our fund is greatly simplified."

Mann pointed out that each club would actually kick off at their meetings held this week. The Exchange club, which met last Monday evening, was the first organization to begin work. Dick Stratman, president of the Exchange club, asked all members to work towards having a 100% report by their next meeting Monday night.

Neighbor Finds 3-Day-Old Body Of George H. Bowers

An elderly Jacksonville man came to the end of a solitary life alone in the living room of his home early this week.

A neighbor last night reported finding the body of George Henry Bowers in the front room of his home at 342 Madison street about 6:30 p. m. The man, Pearl Brown of 329 Washington street, telephoned police at 6:40.

Investigating officers Leroy Leach and Donald Jarvis reported no marks of violence on the corpse, believed to be about three days old. It was lying on its back near the center of the room.

Officials think the cause of death to have been natural, probably a sudden heart attack.

Brown told police that he visited the home of his friend because he had not seen him out for "two or three days" and had observed no signs of life around the house.

Morgan County coroner William L. Hawks said his investigation revealed no cause for an inquest.

The deceased has no known relatives in Jacksonville. Police believe some members of his family reside in Missouri, but they have not been able to locate them. The exact age of the deceased remains unknown, although it is certain that he is over 65.

The body was taken to the Reynolds Mortuary. Funeral arrangements remain incomplete.

Bad check artists who have been operating in Central Illinois have netted approximately $800 from merchants and business men in the Jacksonville area during the past few days, according to announcement from the office of Sheriff Earl Hembrough.

Sheriff's officers said all the checks were drawn on the Elliott State Bank of Jacksonville and signed by George Davis, "painting contractor," and were in identical amounts $84.50.

So far eight of the checks have been received by the bank in this city.

In each case the check artists received more than $90 cash in each transaction. They entered the business place and made purchases usually about $3 or $4 taking the merchandise and cash.

Three of the checks were passed in business houses at Mercedia in Morgan county.

Reports received so far showed that the worthless checks were cashed at Carlinville, Beardstown, White Hall, Springfield, Pittsfield, Hettick and Mercedia.

Various names were used as payees, all fictitious.

The local officials have been investigating the fact that four license plates have been stolen from cars in Jacksonville during the past few days.

Deputy Sheriffs Harry Timmons and Ross Crowcroft have been assigned to the case and are making an extensive search for the forgers.

JACK WISE GIVING BLOOD

For hearty individuals willing to become donors when the Red Cross Bloodmobile visits Jacksonville Thursday and Friday, October 28 and 29, and are just a shade squeamish, be consoled by the above picture of Jack Wise, local business man pictured in the process of giving blood.

The entire procedure, a medical protection for both the donor and party to receive the blood, is simple. For the dainty female who would prefer "not watching" she may do just that. A registered Red Cross nurse tells her what to do, she does it, and that's all there is to it. For the more curious the whole process is one of intense interest from the type of questions answered to the actual filling the bottle, and being escorted to the refreshment table.

Morgan County is fighting to retain her approved position in the Red Cross Blood Program where every member of the county is assured of receiving whole blood needs at any hospital that accepts Red Cross blood.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Grace Methodist church from 12 noon to 6 p. m. both days Thursday and Friday, Oct. 28 and 29, to avoid unnecessary delay phone the Red Cross office 1844, today, make an appointment for either of the two days. Social and Civic clubs within the county and employed persons are making a concentrated effort to meet and exceed the specified quota of 175 pints per day asked of Morgan county. The quota has been missed for the past number of visits.

Adm. Jerauld Wright Heads Vital NATO Sea Operation

By ELTON C. FAY
NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Inside a modest, two-story brick building here is a carefully guarded volume stamped "Comic Top Secret."

It's the master plan for committing to battle all the ships and planes of NATO nations with frontiers on the Atlantic.

Ask U.S. Adm. Jerauld Wright, Jean - faced supreme commander. "If war starts tomorrow, are things ready?"

He taps the volume and says: "Here it is."

The volume, you understand, represents a sum total of the work of naval officers from eight NATO nations here at Saclant — headquarters of the Supreme Allied Command for the Atlantic — and includes a top secret digest of latest estimates of Soviet military capabilities, timetables for deployment of convoys and task forces and a thousand other items that go into the making of high strategy.

Staggering problems of standardization of language of equipment of signals, tactics and ship maneuvers are tackled here daily.

Like their counterparts in SHAPE — NATO's ground forces command in Paris — the men at Saclant have gone at this gigantic job with a steady tenacity. Even such things as the threadings on nuts and bolts have to be standardized to insure smooth, efficient operation.

Directing this vastly complex organization is Wright, the son of a U.S. Army general who got through Annapolis "by the skin of my teeth."

"I had one hell of a time with mathematics," he remembers. But in June 1917, he was graduated at 19, the youngest member of his class.

He rose steadily until, in World War II, he became chief of Amphibious Group 5 and helped plan and direct the invasion of Okinawa.

From his post as commander of naval forces in the eastern Atlantic he moved last February to the top job in Saclant.

Figuratively, he wears four hats. In addition to being Supreme Allied commander in the Atlantic, he also is commander in chief of all U.S. forces in the Atlantic, commander in chief of the western Atlantic and commander in chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet.

His right-hand man at Saclant is a scholarly looking British Vice Adm. John P. Stevens.

Under them is an international staff of 149 naval officers — 105 Americans, 18 Britons, 10 Canadians, 5 French, 4 Dutch, 3 Portuguese, 3 Norwegians and 1 Dane.

Also attached to the U.S. team is a civilian, Daniel V. Anderson, State Department foreign service officer who advises Saclant on matters where the political overtones of signals, tactics and ship maneuvers are tackled here daily.

In addition there are national liaison representatives, most of them from Washington embassies and military missions.

Saclant has no ships or planes physically under its command. But it does have them tagged for immediate use, if necessary.

In 1952, when Saclant was set up, best estimates were that 60 per cent of the ships would be American, 30 per cent British and others from France and smaller NATO members.

Speaking as chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, Wright says that almost everything in the Atlantic Fleet is earmarked for NATO Black Sea, Russian naval units must pass through the Dardanelles — controlled by Turkey, a NATO member.

The admiral thinks the language problem has been solved at Saclant. All participating nations use two official languages, English and French. Standardized operating procedure has been established for ships, signal flags, blinker systems, radio codes — even phonetic designations of letters.

There now is a common understanding of rules governing convoys, minesweepers and task forces working at sea. Where possible, however, naval units of the same nationality will stick together.

WILL YOUR CAR GO SOUTH FOR THE WINTER?

If you are going to drive around in a tropical paradise from now until next June there is no reason why you should pay any attention to the following suggestions: Your car needs special preparation for winter just as much as you need a furnace fire, an overcoat, and all the other special equipment for freezing temperatures, ice, snow, slush and storm.

It will not only save you much money but assure safety and comfort on the road if you will now — without further delay — have your car checked over and prepared for the cold months ahead.

Most of our repair business all winter is on cars that were neglected in October. Owners could have saved about 90% of those bills by doing the obvious things before winter really arrived.

What are you going to do about it? Yes, indeed, we have everything necessary — this is a really up-to-date motor car maintenance establishment. Drive in any time.

In celebrating Fox Midwest Theatres' Silver Anniversary, the Fox Illinois theatre (at right) presents a silver anniversary to three 25 year employees. (Left to right) Grover Flinn, James Laurie, and Charles "Bud" Fronbarger. These three members of the Fox Illinois family were employed at the theatre before of these. "Three for the Show," "Sabrina," plus in cinemascope "Woman's World," "Carmen Jones," "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," "There's No Business Like Show Business." Right now the theatre is making ready to bring the public the new wonderful vista vision process, the first presentation being Irving Berlin's "White Christmas," with seven additional vista vision productions immediately following.

Survey Of Towns Near Military Camps Shows Systematized Sin At Minimum

Editor's Note—Phenix City, Ala., source of sin for servicemen, became front page news when the murder of a reformer broke the city wide open. Then the inevitable thought arose: How many more like this? Here is an AP survey that answers that question—for worried parents and concerned citizens everywhere.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Is organized vice flourishing around our military camps?

Many worried parents wondered after reading about Phenix City, Ala., which until this summer was wide open for gambling, prostitution, dope and crooked politics. The town is only eight miles from Ft. Benning, Ga., and 50,000 GIs.

Phenix City is quiet now. Can the same be said for the many other towns and cities around the country when servicemen go looking hungrily for an escape from boredom and loneliness?

The answer, obtained in a nationwide survey, is reassuring. Only a small minority of military camps are located in areas where organized gambling and prostitution are easily available.

In all but a few cases, systematized sin has been reduced to what local observers describe as a minimum. Through the cooperation of military and civil authorities, the average GI looking for temptation and/or trouble has to work harder at it or supply his own.

The honky-tonks, the clip joints, the tell-tale trader and cooperative woman posed in the doorway are getting harder to find. Harder, but not impossible.

There are the exceptions, where vice is relatively easy to come by for a price.

For example, there is Liberty County, Ga., home of Camp Stewart. While sin does not appear to be on a highly organized basis, the county has many honky-tonks and many prostitutes who frequent them. Slot machines still operate more or less openly despite efforts of Camp Stewart officers to stamp them out along with prostitution and illegal liquor sales.

About 30 miles to the northeast is Savannah, home of Hunter Air Force Base. This seaport has its share of bars and women of commercial virtue but the business there seems to flourish more in hotels—not as regular houses but on a bellboy-supplied basis.

In Savannah proper, there is little or no open gambling. But at nearby Savannah Beach spots, dice games and other gambling are pretty openly available. As in Liberty County, these enterprises seem to be run by "local boys."

Mobile, Ala., the home of Brookley Air Force Base, has spruced up somewhat but still is far from spotless. About 25 years ago, the city had an organized red light district two blocks long. Today there are six or eight houses left scattered about the downtown area. Periodically, they are raided by city police and medical examinations are required.

Bookies, lottery operators, dice and card games, pinball and slot machines aren't too difficult to find in this Gulf Coast city which always has had a relatively liberal attitude toward gambling and vice. But these diversions don't attract many of the 2,500 military personnel at Brookley Air Force Base, authorities there insist. Nearly all personnel are professional air veterans and more than 90 per cent are married and live on the base.

Keesler Air Force Base at Biloxi, Miss., is a large training command with many green, young recruits. The town has had a reputation for gambling but just how serious the situation is seems to be a matter of opinion.

Major Gen. Harlan C. Park, commanding officer at Keesler, estimates between 15 and 20 places in the Biloxi-Gulfport area are off limits to servicemen because of commercialized gambling.

Most bars in San Diego, home of one of our biggest naval stations, employ girls as drink servers. City ordinance prohibits them from accepting drinks or "tipping" with the customers. Police deny any appreciable number of prostitutes get by with the dodge.

In the city as a whole, police insist, there is a minimum of prostitution and none of the "street walker" type. Both city officials and shore patrol officers say gambling is no problem and that few Navy men play in the legal poker rooms.

The average sailor on leave, they report, is apt to spend more on high-pressure photo shops, shooting galleries and other carnival-type amusements.

But what he can't easily get in San Diego is readily available across the Mexican border in Tijuana. There, prostitutes and narcotics are available, but the shore patrol says servicemen make up only a small fraction of the customers.

More than 1,100,000 Americans visit Tijuana every month but servicemen make up only 55,000 of the total. Those who visit prostitutes in Tijuana are provided with protective treatment against venereal disease at a border station.

Camp Pendleton's civilian community, in Oceanside, Calif., has been getting the attention of the State Crime Commission. The commission was told in 1951 that one Oceanside bar served liquor to teenage Marines and that marijuana and heroin were available. Oceanside officials insisted their city was as clean as any in California.

Nellis Air Force Base is near Las Vegas, but the city's legalized gambling is aimed largely at the richer tourist trade—not men in uniform.

Like many other base cities, New York seems eternally to be fighting a crime wave. But being so big, it is difficult to determine how this affects the GI coming into town for a night's entertainment from Ft. Dix or Camp Kilmer, N.J.

It has been many years since New York had an easily discernible red light district. But in recent months, police have been making carefully planned raids in the Times Square area, a favorite haunt of servicemen as it is for other visitors.

Why don't the United appeal agencies help people who are down and out?

I FOUND OUT THEY DO. BUT THERE'S MORE TO IT

Yes, there's plenty more. Being "down and out" isn't the only requirement for United campaign aid, which extends a helping hand instead of a mere handout. When cash alone is the need, it's usually a welfare problem—a governmental function.

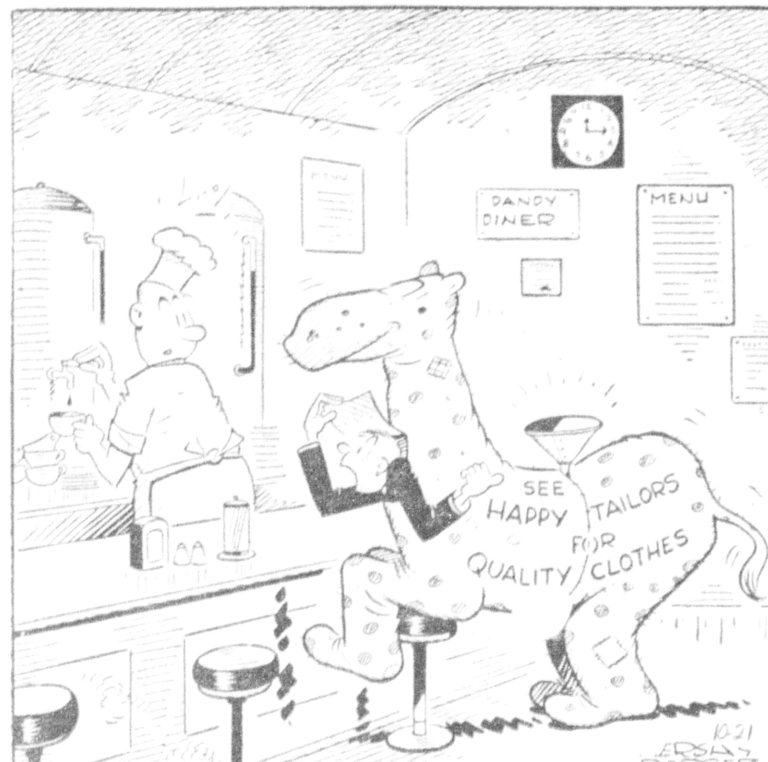

ROODHOUSE

ROODHOUSE—Jasper E. Hood, head of the Roodhouse Community high school business department, is offering a course for adults in beginning personal typing. Registration will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 26, at 7 o'clock in the typing room in the high school annex building. The class will meet for the first time, Monday, Nov. 1, subject to the approval of the group.

Roodhouse Appears
Roodhouse schools are receiving special recognition in this month's Illinois Education magazine in which appears a two-page spread of pictures concerning the Audio-Visual Fair held here last year. William Russell, audio-visual director of the Roodhouse public schools, made the nine photographs which are accompanied by an explanatory write-up. Russell made sound movies as a sideline, and has done three movies in a "God's Wonders" series for Church-Craft Pictures, Inc. of St. Louis, and has made "The Miracle of Corn Growth" and a number of others for Plister Associated Growers. During the war he was captain of a photographic company in the South Pacific.

Car Overtures
Mrs. John Roberts substituted Monday morning in the fifth grade, Washington School. Mrs. Naomi Coker, Patterson, the regular teacher, and her son, Raymond, a student in the local high school, sustained minor injuries when their car overturned in meeting a pickup truck as they were on their way to school early that morning.

Richard Yates Rowe, Jr.

Republican Candidate for

Assessor and Treasurer

Election Tuesday, Nov. 2, 1954

Dick Rowe, Jr., graduated from Jacksonville High School in 1939. Then, after attending Illinois College for two years, he gave forty months Military Service in World War II. He is married and has two children. After World War II, he served three years in the Illinois National Guard while he was earning degrees in Law and Journalism at the University of Illinois. He is a practicing lawyer, a good citizen, and will be a good Assessor and Treasurer. He has promised that, if elected, he will give courteous attention to the problems of any person visiting his office.

—Pol. Adv.

For the first time in many years there are two Republican candidates and two Democratic candidates for State Representative, with three out of the four to be elected on November 2nd. I have tried to serve you faithfully in the past. Apparently the two Democratic candidates have no quarrel with my voting record or with my activities as your Representative. Their only tactic to this date is to say that I will be elected anyhow and do not need your vote, and then to ask you to vote for one or the other of them. It is my belief that the two Democratic candidates are carrying on a sham battle against each other in an effort to attract Republican votes in their fight, and thus wind up with two Democratic Representatives after the election.

Remember, if 3,000 of my friends were to fall for this scheme, it would mean a difference of 18,000 votes, which could easily be enough to cause my defeat.

If you want me to continue as your Representative and to carry on the same aggressive activities that I have in the past, I hope that you will not be misled, but will give me your vote on November 2nd.

XXXIII
JIM closed his hand into a fist. "I washed back through the hole and out the other end. I got in the jeep and drove around to this side. But what were you doing all that time?"

"Sitting," Nancy admitted. "Sitting and shaking. I really felt hemmed in, Jim. I—I thought I sat there for days and days."

"Good thing you waited so long," Jim muttered.

Nancy closed her eyes. "That time when I tried, I moved one of the rocks a little. It rolled, and I tried to squirm through. Then the rock rolled again, Jim. I was caught." The lashes of her tightly closed eyes were wet suddenly. "Don't let them tell you I was an easy death, Jim. Not when you're caught like that. I couldn't move because the rock pressed tighter and tighter. Then something grabbed my arm. I tried to yell and the water—came everywhere."

Jim Dunn watched her struggle with past terror, could see the effort she was making to conquer it.

"Next thing I knew," Nancy said in a stronger voice, "was when you were pushing and pounding at me, and I just had on a few shreds. I must say—she hesitated and then changed her flippant tone to one of real sincerity. "I must say I felt awfully good. I was glad to see you, Jim. Famous understatement."

He leaned over and kissed her. It started as a gentle salute to an invalid. It changed.

PHILIP STONEMAN and Jim, wearing swimming trunks, walked toward the upper entrance of the cavern. "You're getting pretty tough, chum," Philip said. "I mean coming right out that way and saying you wanted two women to sit with stuffed the doll into the plastic pillow cover, and twisted with the opening. He dove again, let the current carry him. In an unbelievably short time he emerged out on the ledge where the water grew shallow, splashed hurriedly to where Philip waited in the jeep.

"What's the idea, chum?" Philip demanded.

Jim pushed him over from the driver's seat, got in and began the trip back up the hill. "Idea of what?" His mind was filled with what lay ahead.

"Idea of jumping the gun that way. My watch only showed two minutes after 4."

Jim had forgotten to look at his own watch, but he said, "So did mine." Philip's words "jumping the gun" had reminded him of his own weapon still lying on the flat rock. He decided it would be safe enough there. Probably safer than in his possession, considering what he had to do.

Jim saw Stoneman was looking curiously at the doll bundled in the plastic case. He said, "On the level. You've just witnessed a demonstration that knocks your alibi all to pieces."

Philip thought that over. "And now what?"

"I'm counting on your help," Jim said.

"There's a doll in that plastic case," Jim said. "It's Angelica's doll. Left in that cavern by the person who killed her. It's Angelica's doll and it's stuffed with money and a love letter from her husband."

They reached the top of the winding road from the Stairs before Philip spoke. "She was pretending! Angelica was setting something of her own back before she made the mad break. I—I don't know. I hoped, but I didn't think she had that in her."

Jim sighed. "You've been around the Carlsons too long at that. But you think about it. And you think about Angelica and her doll. While you're at it you might do a little thinking about turquoise."

ASHLAND

ASHLAND—The MYF of the Methodist church met Sunday evening in the church basement with fourteen members present.

Dr. Carl M. Lind donated two trees, which will be placed on either side of the outside bulletin board. Harold Edwards, president, read an acceptance of the bulletin board as written by the official church board.

Dr. E. L. Beades read what the other MYFers from other churches pledged for the year at the Quince meeting held recently.

Devotions were given by Beverly Scott, Naomi Wallon, Phyllis Morrow, Barbara Radloff and Dotie Lou Raper. The meeting closed with the MYF benediction led by Harold Edwards.

The BYF met Friday at the Baptist church. Delores Tinsley was in charge of the program. Your Body a Temple. Mrs. J. Wesley Smith led Bible study. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by Margaret Radloff and Jane McCarty. A weiner roast will be held at New Salem park for the next meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. Walter J. Dean left last week for Daytona Beach, Fla. to spend the winter months at the Retired Ministers Home there.

Miss Norma Wade of Tallula and Gerald (Coom) Lynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Lynn of Ashland were married Saturday night at Tallula. A reception was held in the church dining room.

A son was born to Mayor and Mrs. Robert Newell Thursday evening.
